Czar Worthy Beaten for Plain Dealer Purse—Lee Worthy Cops Stallion Stake.

NORTH RANDALL, Cleveland, O., Aug. 9.—Exceptionally close finishes and the defeat of Czar Worthy in the Plain Dealer $5,000 purse and Bill Sharon in the $14,000 stake marked the day's racing. Both were odds on favorites. Several of the heats left the spectators in doubt until the money horses were posted.

The Plain Dealer went to The Great Volo, driven and owned by Walter Cox, of the Goshen, N. Y., coltsman, after one of the greatest struggles in the history of the stake. Four heats were necessary to decide the winner. Breaks in the stretch cost Czar Worthy the race. In the second heat he finished second to the Great Volo, which paced the last few feet and beat the trotter by a nose.

The $12,000 stake also resulted in four heats. After Ringwood, Jr., finished sixth in the first heat the judges substituted Harry Stokes for Marvin Childs in the next heat and was called into the stand. He then won the third heat but was unable to hold his long lead in the final heat. The race was won by Mary Coffee, which also took the first heat and the race. Decision as to Childs and Stokes was reserved by the judges. Setting his own pace, Lee Worthy, the unbeaten son of Lee Axworthy, won the $11,000 champion stallion stake, one of the richest three year old Grand Circuit futurities of the season, in straight heats at North Randall, Wednesday, and in doing so broke three records, one of which is said to be a world's record. The race was worth $5,275 to Frank H. Ellis, Philadelphia, owner of the colt. It was the fifth victory of the season.

Lee Worthy was coupled with Lee Wynolot and faced the starter a heavy favorite. Sumpster, Jr.,

Barfoot Making Good With Cards In First Season

Youngster Shows Stuff in Army and Makes Grade—Has Good Screw Ball.

Enter Sergeant Clyde Barfoot, six feet tall, 175 pounds, into the ranks of winning major league pitchers. Being one of the species which has for its particular characteristic theory that the St. Louis Cardinals are going to beat out the New York Giants for the National League pennant, the Virginia lad is giving for one proof of the verity of this doctrine his own strong right arm.

The history of that right wing—how it first learned the art of impelling the horseshoe through the atmosphere, how it strengthened month by month and year by year until now it can speed 'em up to the catcher now like a streak, and how it mastered the little tricks which make up the winning arm—is a long one.

The sandlots of the capital of the Old Dominion were the scene of its first tutoring, Clyde, coming from a family already famous for the prowess on the diamond, formed a natural inclination for the game, and as a member of the Randolph and Madison school nines achieved brilliant success.

Army Man First
He never went to high school, but at the age of 17 and already a finished moundsman, he entered the army and immediately leaped into prominence as a pitcher. In 1916, after he had reached the rank of sergeant, his term was out and he immediately signed with Dallas of the Texas League, who sold him later to Galveston and later he went to Houston, with which club he played until the start of this season. He was this year picked up by the Cardinals and made a place for himself from the start.

The "screw ball," a unique delivery, originated by Sergeant Barfoot, is his favorite resort to retire a batter, and he says it is more effective when used against a left-handed hitter. Leaving the hand before the arm of the pitcher is horizontal, it takes a sudden duck away from the batsman which generally produces the desired result.

Famous "Screw Ball"
And not only did Barfoot have success with this delivery in the Texas League but he is causing National League batters to tap weakly or miss altogether with the use of this deceptive twist. Friends of the sergeant's in Richmond daily scan the box score of the Cardinals to see what Clyde did. His mother, Mrs. Annie Barfoot, and younger sister, who at present live in Cleveland, are partially supported by the youngster and frequently visited by him, along with Mrs. Clyde Barfoot, who hails from Texas.

He only cost St. Louis $4,000. Before the season is over he may be worth $14,000 to them. Watch him in the 1922 world's series!

Players Criticize Ethics Of English National Pastime

Cricket Now "Isn't Cricket," According to Game's Critics in England.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—To say in England of anybody's conduct is "not cricket," is an expression of strong disapproval, for cricket, the national game, is believed to show the Englishman at his best. Yet "cricket itself today is being strongly censured."

Here are some names printed in an account of a cricket match between two country clubs: Holmes, Sutcliffe, Rhodes, G. Wilson, H. H. Higgins, A. M. Carr, Tarbox, Povey, C. S. Hurst, Robinson, L. W. H. Troughton.

Observers carefully that some of them are preceded by initials and some are given without initials. And it is just the presence or absence of initials which shows where cricket "isn't cricket," according to the critics. Those whose names are preceded by initials are amateurs and socially are accounted "gentlemen"; those who are given their surnames only are thereby known to be professionals and are not entitled to be considered gentlemen.

It would cause trouble in any English newspaper office if, in giving the scores in any first-class cricket match the name of an amateur player should appear without his initials. And it would cause just as much trouble if a professional should be designated by putting initials before the name.

Cricket is the only game played here in which amateurs and professionals play together as members of the same team. They meet on familiar terms on the field and social distinctions are never obliterated there.

But they are in evidence all the same if one knows where to look for them. There is one dressing room provided for the gentleman cricketers and another for the professional cricketers. They must not take tea together; for that sacred function cricket etiquette requires that they should occupy separate refreshment quarters.

The democratic tendencies of the day have leveled more than one British class distinction no less invidious than this discrimination against team mates in the national game.

NEW YORK—Benny Leonard and Charley White have agreed to terms for a lightweight championship fight and the bout may be the opening of the Madison Square Garden winter season.

Rugby Trophy To Mrs. Spittler In Finals Of Match

Defeats Mrs. Rostiser Two up in 36 Holes—"Chick" Evans Appreciates Honor.

Mrs. D. K. Spittler won the Rugby trophy yesterday at Chain O' Lakes when she defeated Mrs. H. F. Rostiser 2 up at the end of 36 holes of play.

Mrs. Spittler won the first hole and maintained her lead to the end. At the turn Mrs. Spittler was one up and at the 12th, was 3 up. Mrs. Rostiser rallied and won the 13th, having the next three holes and scored a clever win on the difficult 17th. Being 1 down and 1 to go Mrs. Rostiser tried desperately on the last hole but failed, the hole going to Mrs. Spittler the match ending 2 up. This was one of the closest matches ever played at Chain O' Lakes by the women and was watched with interest by many of the club members.

Local golfers and country club members may be interested to learn just how "Chick" Evans received the news which made him an honorary life member of Chain O' Lakes. The letter was addressed to Karl G. King secretary South Bend Country Club.

Dear Mr. King:—Words fail to describe the pleasure I felt when I received the notification that I had been made an honorary life member of the South Bend Country Club. I shall always treasure the letter that bore the good news to me.

It has been a pleasure to me to play at South Bend for I like the course and the people, and the good word has been easy to speak because it came from the heart.

I shall seize every opportunity to play at the South Bend Country Club that presents itself, and shall make as many more as I possibly can.

Thanking you, the Board of Directors and the whole membership for the great honor done me, I am, Very gratefully yours, Charles "Chick" Evans

Australian Team After Davis Cup Makes Long Trip

Travels Around the World in Quest of Net Championship—Considered Strong.

The arrival of the Australian Davis Cup Team in the United States last week on the "Maestri" marks its entry upon the last lap of a journey which will, when completed, have taken the team around the world in its campaign to regain possession of the famous International tennis trophy. Last spring Gerald L. Patterson, James O. Anderson and Pat O'Hara Wood sailed from Australia for England and thus far on the long journey the efforts of these wonderful players from the "down under" side of the world have been most successful.

In England they played two Davis Cup matches, winning both, when they defeated Belgium and Czechoslovakia. These victories have placed the Australians in the semi-final round of the upper half of the draw. They will meet France next, this match being scheduled at the Longwood Cricket Club in Boston on August 10, 11 and 12. The winner of that match will be in the final and will meet Spain, if the Spanish L. T. A. decides to send representatives to the United States. In case of a default by Spain, Australia will then become the challenging nation and will play the United States for the possession of the cup, this challenge match being scheduled at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, L. I., September 12 and 14.

But the Australians' success has not been confined to Davis Cup matches for on their way to this country they picked up an impressive assortment of championships which testify to their prowess with the racket. Patterson defeated Randolph Lycett for the singles title at Wimbledon, but, paired with Wood lost the doubles championship to Anderson. His team mate, who played with Lycett, Wood also teamed with Mlle. Lengien to win the mixed doubles championship, defeating Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Lycett.

Both Patterson and Anderson are well known to the tennis public of the United States. Patterson played here in 1919 when he won the National Doubles championship with Norman E. Brooks. At that time his game attracted such attention, for he was then and has since been regarded as one of the strongest players in the world. Last season, and this year too, he has had to look to his laurels for a rival developed right at home in James O. Anderson. He also is a former "Anzac" with a notable war record and a tennis reputation that has attracted attention throughout the world. His defeat of William T. Tilden after last year's National Championship and his matches against Patterson in Australia, last winter have marked him as a player of unusual ability. Pat O'Hara Wood's greatest strength is as a doubles player, although he has beaten Patterson in singles. In 1919 he won the doubles at Wimbledon with R. V. Thomas and in 1920 was selected as a member of the Australian Davis Cup Team.

YANK BLIMP PILOT MAY WIN CUP RACE

GENEVA, Aug. 9.—(By U. P.)—Capt. H. E. Honeywell, American pilot of the balloon "Uncle Sam," descended today at Tapiozwe, east of Budapest, and is probably the winner of the James Gordon Bennett cup balloon race, according to word received here. He landed more than 1,000 kilometers from the starting point.

Two other balloons have not been accounted for. There is slight possibility that one of these may outdistance the American.

BOSTON—Suggestion that the world's singles tennis championship be decided annually in the country where the Davis cup matches are held has been made by Pat O'Hara Wood, member of the Australian team.

TWO HOMERS THE SAME INNING TIES 28-YEAR-OLD MARK

Ken Williams' Two Circuit Drives Equals Washington Equals Famous Record.

BY BILLY EVANS.

Turn the spotlight on Ken Williams once more.

The slugging outfielder of the St. Louis Browns has given Babe Ruth something new to shoot at.

When Williams made two home runs in the sixth inning of the game with Washington on Aug. 7 he equaled a batting record of 28 years' standing.

In the inning that Williams turned in his remarkable feat, St. Louis made nine runs and eight hits. Several misplays on the part of Washington also figured in the scoring. St. Louis won the game, 15 to 1.

Only two other batsmen in the history of major league baseball have ever made two home runs in the same inning. That gives some idea of the rarity of the performance.

The record established by Jones stood for 14 years, when Bobby Lewis of Boston equaled it.

Ken Williams stands out as the first of the so-called modern players to get two home runs in the same inning.

Williams, who is a left-handed batter, made his first home run off George Moormeir, a southpaw. On his next trip to the plate, Erickson, a right-hander, had been substituted for Moormeir. Erickson, a fast-ball pitcher, uses a style in much favor with Williams.

The season of 1922 has been a record-breaking affair as far as Williams is concerned.

On April 22, against Chicago, Williams made three home runs in one game. Only 10 other players in the history of league baseball have ever performed such a feat.

The making of three home runs in one game on April 22 was the start of a batting rampage by Williams that lasted eight days.

In eight days Williams cracked out nine home runs. Ever since Williams has been hitting circuit clouts and showing the way to Babe Ruth as well as all the other sluggers in two major leagues.

Shortly after Williams had made the nine home runs in eight days, he told me that he expected to make 40 home runs during the season of 1922. He should have no trouble turning the trick.

ed here in 1919 when he won the National Doubles championship with Norman E. Brooks. At that time his game attracted such attention, for he was then and has since been regarded as one of the strongest players in the world.
